STATISTICS

(June 1, 1990 - May 31, 1991)

This year, 124 mediations were scheduled, 108 were held and 99 reached an agreement. A majority of these referrals involved the problems of truancy and fighting.

Many referrals were resolved prior to mediation due to intervention by staff mediation advocates. Very often, through contact by CMC staff, parties are assisted in resolving their problems without going through the formal mediation process. Such informal resolutions through intervention occurred in 59 cases. 69 of the referrals received during the program year are still being served. 15% of these referrals received involved parties who refused services or who unsuccessfully completed the program. In the cases received and closed during the 1990-91 program year, 99% were peacefully and successfully resolved.

485 persons served by the Cleveland Mediation Center.
(Parties in mediations, interventions or recipients of brokered services).
